7th Sunday after the Holy Cross

Readings: Rom 12:9-21 and Mt 25:31-46

- 1- Usually, when we think of saints, we think of people of heroic, almost superhuman proportions. We think of miracles and acts of self-sacrificing charity. We place statues of saints with halos around their heads in shrines.
- 2- We also, almost always, think of saints in the past. But as I listened to the gospel reading, the “job description” of being a saint, it occurred to me how many real saints I have met in my first four months in the parish. I know people—and you probably know them, too—who live lives of sanctity. They don’t have halos and they are not called saints. They don’t attract any attention. They perform many good works of service that we would consider too ordinary to be “heroic.”
- 3- But they are among the “Blessed” of today’s gospel:
- 4- “. . . Blest are the poor in spirit: the reign of God is theirs.” Blest are the parents who could have had all the luxuries and opportunities that life has to offer, but who sacrifice so much for their children. Blest is the lady with so little but who gives nevertheless to the poor and doesn’t want to be mentioned.
- 5- “Blest too are the sorrowing; they shall be consoled.” Blest is the wife who cares for her terminally ill husband, caring for him and loving him. Blest is the husband who faithfully goes to the nursing home every day to be with his wife, who is in a coma.
- 6- “Blest are the lowly; they shall inherit the land.” Blest is the cleaning woman who scrubs floors for minimum wage and is embarrassed to come to church because she doesn’t have a good dress to wear. Blest is the child who understands and loves his parents, even though his clothes aren’t as nice as his friends’ and his room is not stuffed with the toys other children have.
- 7- “Blest are they who hunger and thirst for holiness; they shall have their fill.” Blest are those people I have surprised in church, praying to God in a moment of quiet in their lives. Blest is the father and mother who spend time teaching their children what prayer is and how to pray. Blest is the elderly woman whose arthritic fingers can barely move along the beads of her rosary.
- 8- “Blest are they who show mercy; mercy shall be theirs.” Blest is that man who is watching his wife die of cancer and who cares for her with love and honor. Blest is the older sister who tries to explain to her younger brother that alcoholism is a disease, so he won’t think less of his father.
- 9- “Blest are the single-hearted for they shall see God.” Blest is the mother who sacrifices the years she should be enjoying in retirement to care for her crippled son, and who worries what will happen to him when she is gone.
- 10- “Blest too the peacemakers; they shall be called children of God.” Blest is that one person I know who is so kind, so gentle . . . who with a few words brings peace to all of us with a smile.
- 11- “Blest are those persecuted for holiness sake; the reign of God is theirs.” Blest is the middle-age woman who knows of her husband’s cheating, but who goes on loving him and praying for him and trying to forgive him. Blest is the girl who wanted to be a nun, but whose cerebral palsy rules out the life of a religious. Blest is the elderly priest, confused by the changes in the church, who is often the subject of ridicule and scorn, yet continues to try to adapt himself even though psychologists tell us not much can be expected from someone so advanced in years.
- 12- These are just some of the saints I have met in my life. There are so many more who have strengthened my faith, who have convinced me beyond any doubt of the existence of God’s grace and of the reality of goodness vanquishing evil.
- 13- I invite you to sit back and think of the saints you have met in your life.
- 14- Today we celebrate those saints—the ordinary, who have been neither canonized nor remembered in the church calendar. Yet their lives and their faith are as heroic as any of the great saints. In their simple loving, they point to God just as well as the most beautiful cathedral.
- 15- Through their example, may we live lives of sainthood in our homes and offices and schools and factories . . . that one day, All Saints’ Day becomes our feast, too.

A Time to Laugh (329)

Vikings & Packers

On a tour of Texas, the Pope took a couple of days off to visit the coast for some sightseeing. He was cruising along the beach in the pope-mobile when there was a frantic commotion just off shore.

A helpless man wearing a Green Bay Packer jersey was struggling frantically to free himself from the jaws of a 25-foot shark.

As the Pope watched, horrified, a speedboat came racing up with three men wearing Minnesota Viking jerseys. One quickly fired a harpoon into the shark's side. The other two reached out and pulled the bleeding, semi-conscious Packer Backer from the water, Then, using long clubs, the three beat the shark to death and hauled it into the boat.

Immediately the Pope shouted and summoned them to the beach. "I give you my blessing for your brave actions," he told them. "I heard that there was bitter hatred between Green Bay Packers & Vikings fans, but now I have seen with my own eyes that this is not true". As the Pope drove off, the harpooner asked his buddies "who was that"? "It was the Pope," one replied. "He is in direct contact with God and has access to all of God's wisdom".

"Well," the harpooner said, "he may have access to God's wisdom, but he doesn't know anything about shark fishing. Is the bait holding up O.K., or do we need to get another one"?

Indian English

An Italian, French and Indian went for a job interview in England.

Before the interview, they were told that they must compose a sentence in English with three main words: green, pink and yellow.

The Italian was first: "I wake up in the morning. I see the yellow sun.

I see the green grass and I think to myself, I hope it will be a pink day."

The French was next: " I wake up in the morning, I eat a yellow banana, a green pepper and in the evening I watch the pink panther on TV.

Last was the Indian: "I wake up in the morning, I hear the phone "green green", I "pink" up the phone and I say "Yellow."
