6th Sunday of the Resurrection

Readings: Rom 10:1-13 and Lk 24:36-48

Luke gives us here one of the accounts of the risen Lord's appearance to the apostles. Jesus will have to allow himself to be touched by them, to eat before their eyes, in order to convince them that it is indeed Himself, the crucified One, now restored to life. He is present in a way that is wholly different and yet the same. His Resurrection casts a light on the scriptures in a way which clarifies the past and announces the future, that, in His name, repentance for the forgiveness of sins would be preached to all the nations.

"Their joy was so great they could not believe it..." (Lk 24:47). And we ourselves, if often torn between doubt and belief, can make this act of faith which will allow us, even today, to come into direct contact with the Living One, whose presence is quite different from that of the historical Jesus of Nazareth. The Eucharist is the privileged place where the Church is able to recognize "THE PRINCE OF LIFE" (Acts 3:15) who was offered up as a victim for the sins of the world. The living signs of His resurrection are when we meet together under His leadership, recall His words and the words of scripture, recount the testimony of those who saw Him, joyfully break bread and then head off again into the world where the tiny flame, which was enkindled at the first Eastertide, is spread from person to person. Because life itself is its own sure proof.

What influence does the reality of the Resurrection exercise upon our life as believers today? What place has the understanding of the scriptures in our interpretation of our life in Jesus Christ? Does our meeting with the Risen Lord in the Eucharist make us enthusiastic servants of the good news with which the deepest level of the heart of man, indeed the very depths of the earth, ought to resound?

Spirituality: Psalm 23

Some probably never thought nor looked at Psalm 23 in this way, even though they say it over and over again.

The Lord is my Shepherd That's Relationship!

I shall not want That's Supply!

He made me to lie down in green pastures That's Rest!

He leads me beside the still waters That's Refreshment!

He restored my soul That's Healing!

He leads me in the paths of righteousness That's Guidance!

For His name sake That's Purpose!

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death That's Testing!

I will fear no evil That's Protection!

For Thou art with me That's Faithfulness!

Your rod and your staff they comfort me That's Discipline!

You prepared a table before me in the presence of mine enemies That's Hope!

You anointed my head with oil That's Consecration!

My cup overflows That's Abundance!

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life That's Blessing!

And I will dwell in the house of the Lord That's Security!

Forever That's Eternity!

Wisdom

Funny, Isn't it ?!

Funny how hard it is to read a single chapter in the Bible, but how easy it is to read 100 pages of a best selling novel.

Funny how people fight to get a front seat at any game or concert, but scramble to get a back seat at church services.

Funny how we need 2 or 3 weeks advance notice to fit a church event into our schedule, but can adjust our schedule for an outing with friends at the last moment.

Funny how hard it is for people to learn a simple gospel well enough to tell others, but how simple it is for the same people to share a good piece of gossip.

Funny how we believe anything the newspaper says,
but question everything the Bible says.

Funny how everyone wants to go to heaven, provided they do not have to believe, or to think, or to say, or do anything.

Funny how you can send a thousand jokes through e-mail and they spread like wildfire, but when you start sending messages regarding the Lord, people hesitate to forward them for fear of being found out.

FUNNY, ISN'T IT ?

Are you laughing? Are you thinking? Actually, it isn't funny at all!

“The greatest cause of atheism in the world today is people who proclaim the Lord with their lips and deny Him by their lifestyle. That is what an unbelieving world simply finds unbelievable!”

Story: Life is precious

I stopped and watched a beggar boy as he carefully searched through the garbage-filled gutter that ran along the outside of my home. I knew he had to be scrounging for food so I called out to get his attention. For a second, I thought he might have glanced up at me, but then I realized I just happened to be standing where he looked. I felt the same disappointment I had felt with him many times before. Even though he was filthy, shoeless, dressed in rags, and obviously hungry, my shouted offers of help were repeatedly ignored.

"Why," I wondered, "doesn't he want my help?"

As a charitable person, it is my job to feed, clothe, and educate the poorest of the poor. During my twenty-plus years as a Catholic missionary, I have seen hundreds of thousands of poor children and homeless families. But this particular boy puzzled me. It was obvious he needed help, yet he seemingly would have none of it. Leaving him alone, I walked back to the orphanage and began to pore over the financial books. Frustrated at the realization that we were going to end the fiscal year two thousand dollars in debt, I had to make a difficult decision.

"We will not accept any more children into the program this year," I told our staff and volunteers in a strong clear voice. "We simply can't do it. How can we take in any more children when we can't even feed those we already have?"

Even though I hated the thought of turning needy children away, this time I was determined to stick by my decision.

Two days later, a surprise visitor knocked at my door. It was my shoeless friend! Covered with lice and foul smelling, he held up his hand and made a strange guttural sound from his throat. At first, I was confused, but then it hit me that he was deaf and could not speak. The poor child had ignored me all that time because he had never heard me call to him.

My confused smile broke into very loud laughter. God had sent me the one boy who could get me to break my commitment not to accept another child. God was letting me know it was He and not I who was ultimately in charge of such things.

Frank joined our mission that very same day. Abandoned by his father at birth, he was raised in the streets by an indifferent, alcoholic mother. When he was six-months old, a severe illness robbed him of his hearing. He had been begging on the streets for food since the age of four. The streets became his home. His bed was wherever he laid down to sleep at night.

Frank came into our very large family that day bringing with him bad habits, lice, fleas and rotted teeth. He also came with a very sharp mind, survival instincts, and keen emotions. Violence on TV could bring forth an anguished cry just as quickly as watching a mother kiss her son good night would bring tears to his eyes. I can only guess at the nightmares that often disrupted his sleep. Over the years, Frank was taught to communicate and he was able to receive an education. When his grade-school education came to an end at the mainstream public school, the teachers pooled their examination scores to determine the valedictorian. On the day of grade school graduation, it was Frank who was asked to come up and receive the honor—much to his surprise, but not to that of his wildly cheering classmates.

In times of desperation and when the hard work seems too much, I am sometimes tempted to give up. It is at those times, however, that I think of Frank. He is on his own now, working full-time and still studying on weekends. Because of his physical limitations, his salary is low. Still, he smiles a lot and works hard. He visits his mother who abandoned him to the streets so many years ago, and he goes to Mass often. I regularly ask our Blessed Mother to watch over this special child of God. I believe that she already has.

Truth

Old actress: "I really don't know my age. It keeps changing from minute to minute."

Truth

An American tourist was traveling abroad for the first time. On arrival at his first foreign airport, he was faced with a choice between two passageways. One of which was marked CITIZENS and the other ALIENS. He promptly headed for the first one. When told later that he would have to stand in the other line. He protested, "But I'm no alien, I'm an American."

Truth

When the English playwright Oscar Wilde arrived at his club late at night after witnessing the first presentation of a play that had been a complete failure, someone asked, "How did your play go tonight, Oscar?" "Oh," said Wilde, "the play was a great success. The audience was a failure."

Grace

The President of the largest Banking Corporation in the world was in hospital. One of the Vice-Presidents came to visit him with this message:

“I bring you the good wishes of our board of directors, that you should be restored to health and live to be hundred years. That’s an official resolution passed by the majority of 15 to 6 with 2 abstentions.”

Truth

Nasruddin was arrested and taken to court on the charge that he was stuffing horsemeat into the chicken cutlets he served at his restaurant.

Before passing sentence the judge wanted to know in what proportion he was mixing horsemeat with chicken flesh. Nasruddin said, on oath, “It was fifty-fifty, your honor.”

I am who I am

A little boy was overheard praying: “Lord, if you can't make me a better boy, don't worry about it. I'm having a real good time like I am.”

I am who I am

A little boy was overheard praying: “Lord, if you can't make me a better boy, don't worry about it. I'm having a real good time like I am.”

Tell me this won't happen to us!

Three sisters, ages 92, 94 and 96, live in a house together. One night the 96-year-old draws a bath. She puts her foot in and pauses. She yells to the other sisters, 'Was I getting in or out of the bath?'

The 94-year-old yells back, 'I don't know. I'll come up and see.' She starts up the stairs and pauses 'Was I going up the stairs or down?'

The 92-year-old is sitting at the kitchen table having tea listening to her sisters, she shakes her head and says, 'I sure hope I never get that forgetful, knock on wood.' She then yells. 'I'll come up and help both of you as soon as I see who's at the door.'

Tell me this won't happen to us!

Three retirees, each with a hearing loss, were playing golf one fine March day. One remarked to the other, 'Windy, isn't it?'

'No,' the second man replied, 'it's Thursday.'

And the third man chimed in, 'So am I. Let's have a beer'
