1st Sunday after the Holy Cross

Readings: 2 Tim 2:1-10 and Mk 10:35-45

Scarcely has Jesus, for the third time, recalled the destiny that awaits him in Jerusalem, than the disciples' ambition gets the better of their momentary fear. After Peter's confession at Caesarea and the dispute along the road as to which of them was the greatest, it is easy to imagine the ambition of the sons of Zebedee to secure for themselves two good places in the messianic kingdom approaching at the end of time in the race for favored positions, they know what they want, and so do the other disciples, in spite of their virtuous indignation.

But no, they do not know, and Jesus reveals it to them. It is about another ministry that he speaks, correcting in passing their popular conception of merit, according to which man acquires rights over God. The true disciple can aspire to only one thing: to share the passion of his master. As for the reward, it eludes every possible claim. God is free to do what he likes with his gifts. The Christian likewise will have his share in the condition of servant which was that of Jesus: that is to say, he will participate in the life and death of Jesus for others'. For true Christian greatness consists in serving, and not in playing the master. Such are the bases of government of a Church which is built up by the work of ministry. Ministry after the example of the Son of God who, like a slave, washes the feet of his disciples, and offers for the multitudes the Suffering Servant's sacrifice of atonement.

Too often, in the course of history, the government of the Church has been seen as power or domination. This was a failure to relate her mission to the mission of Christ dead and risen. According to the gospel, the way of ruling is to serve: our king himself has shown that to us. 'Princes of the Church', if they exist, ought to have no other ambition.

Order of Saint Sharbel (Sunday, October 9th)

October 9th is designated "Order of Saint Sharbel Sunday" in the Eparchy of Our Lady of Lebanon of Los Angeles. We will have a brief, special presentation on the Order that day. The Order of Saint Sharbel is vitally important in providing financial and spiritual support for educating our seminarians, who are crucial for the future of our Maronite Catholic Church. Please prayerfully consider joining the Order. You may enroll online at <http://www.orderstsharbel.org> or ask Monsignor Bakhos for more information.

All Souls Week (November 1-6)

"Can we actually help those in purgatory get out by our prayers?"

Answer: Yes. The members of the body of Christ are connected to each other. The Church refers to three types of Christians: the Church Militant (those on earth), the Church Triumphant (those in heaven) and the Church Suffering (those in purgatory). We are all part of the same mystical body of Christ, whether in heaven, on earth or in purgatory.

The Bible exhorts us to pray for one another (1 Tim. 2:1-4, 2 Macc. 12:46). This prayer includes all members of the body, especially those in need. Those in purgatory are in need because they can't help themselves.

Our prayers, especially the Mass, are said to relieve the suffering of the holy souls in purgatory. These souls are eternally grateful for our prayers and will remember us when they get to heaven. If we go to purgatory, they will surely pray for us. Praying for the dead is an obligation for Catholics, so keep up this good and holy practice.

If you need to remember your parents and beloved ones, please fill the attached Form.

Spirituality: The whole Christ

How does Jesus of Nazareth influence me who am centuries removed from him by time and thousands of miles by space?

Our Lord can influence our day because he left us a beautiful example of a holy, moral life that we should follow. We too, can be forgiving as he forgave those who crucified him; we can be gentle as he was gentle to little children, humble as he was before those who would make him an earthly king; and prayerful as he was in the long vigils on the mountaintops. Countless, indeed, are the heroic, self-sacrificing, and saintly deeds of our own day, which have had as their inspiration the example of him who left the heavens to teach us to be the kind of people God from all eternity wished us to be.

(...) So the whole Christ embraces not only the earthly life in which he redeemed, but also the glorified and mystical life by which he pours out the fruits of redemption upon the world. For the present it suffices us to know that he is not only our Truth because of his teaching, not only our Way because of his example, but also our Life because he is our Savior and Redeemer.

His life is not something gone from us, but living among us, making our lives livable, hopeful, and glad. Our eyes need not look back to Bethlehem, for the Wise Men and the simple shepherds are still at the feet of Christ. There is nothing past in him who is eternal. There are no memories of him who is the "same yesterday, today, and tomorrow." There are no distances from here to Galilee, for he who is divine has pitched his tent in the very center of our hearts and civilization, because he is Eternal Life.

Bishop Fulton SHEEN, In the Fullness of Time, p.11-14.

Wisdom: Growing older

When the poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was well along in years, his hair was white but he was still a vigorous man. Someone asked him why this was so.

The poet pointed to an apple tree in bloom and said, "That tree is very old, but I never saw prettier blossoms on it than it now bears. That tree grows new wood each year. Like that apple tree, I try to grow a little new wood each year."

Story: Man with two wives

A man in India had two wives, one of the wives used to live upstairs and the other on the lower store. One day a thief broke into the house. The thief wanted to steal away all the property, but the members of the house were wide awake and the thief could not get anything. Near dawn the members of the house saw the thief, and they caught him and took him before magistrate, or to the police magistrate. There was nothing stolen, yet the thief had broken into the house. That was a crime. The magistrate put some cross questions to the thief. The thief at once admitted that he had broken into the house with the intention of stealing something. The magistrate was going to inflict some punishment upon him. The man said, "Dear magistrate, you may do whatever you please, you may throw me into a dungeons, you cast me before dogs, you may burn my body, but do not inflict one punishment upon me." The magistrate being astonished asked, "What is that?" The man said, never make me the husband of two wives. Never inflict this punishment upon me. "Why is that?"

Then the thief began to explain how he was caught, how he had no opportunity to steal anything. He said: "All night long this master of the house had to stand upon the stairs because one wife was pulling him upstairs and the other was dragging him downstairs. The hairs of his head were pulled out and the stockings on his feet were torn off; he was shivering with cold all night long, and thus it was that I was caught; I had no opportunity to steal anything."

[So it is, all your sufferings come through your conflicting desires, and your desires are not in harmony. your desires are at war with each other. Your desires are not in harmony with one another, and you know a house divided against itself must fall, so examine your own hearts and minds and see if there is peace there. Singleness of aim and unity of purpose, if you have these, you will have no trouble, you will have no suffering, but if there is conflict, if there is discord there the house must be pulled down, you must suffer.]

A Time To Laugh (28)

Human Nature

A young man blind from birth, fell in love with a girl. All went well until a friend told him the girl wasn't too good looking. At that minute he lost all interest in her. Too bad! He had been "seeing" her very well. It was his friend who was blind.

Stupidity

Q: Why did 18 idiots go to a movie?

A: Because below 18 was not allowed!!!

Q: What do you call an idiot in an institution of higher learning?

A: A visitor.

A Growing Hazard

A young golfer with a few spare hours one afternoon figured there was just about enough time to get in nine holes before dinner.

Just as the golfer was about to tee off, an older player shuffled onto the tee and asked to accompany the young golfer. Not feeling able to say no, the younger player agreed.

Surprisingly, the elderly golfer played fairly quickly. The older player didn't hit the ball far, but plodded along consistently, without wasting time.

Finally, they reached the ninth fairway and the young player was faced with a tough shot. A large pine tree stood directly between the duffers ball and the green. "You know," said the older player, "when I was your age, I hit the ball right over that tree."

With that challenge, the younger player eyed the tree carefully and swung hard. The ball smacked into the tree trunk and landed on the ground not a foot from where it originally lay.

"Of course," smiled the older player, "when I was your age, that pine tree was only three feet tall." [Weird Science]. "If it wasn't for electricity, we'd all be watching television by candlelight."

Failure Worldwide Survey

A worldwide survey was conducted by the UN. The only question asked was:

"Would you please give your honest opinion about solutions to the food shortage in the rest of the world?"

The survey was a colossal failure:

In Africa they didn't know what "food" meant.

In Eastern Europe they didn't know what "honest" meant.

In Western Europe they didn't know what "shortage" meant.

In China they didn't know what "opinion" meant.

In the Middle East they didn't know what "solution" meant.

In South America they didn't know what "please" meant.

And in the USA they didn't know what "the rest of the world" meant.

Authority

A disciple once said to Confucius, "What are the basic ingredients of good government?"

He answered, "Food, weapons, and the trust of the people." "But," continued the disciple, "if you were forced to dispense with one of these three, which would you drop?"

"Weapons." "And if you had to drop one of the other two?" "Food."

"but without food the people will die!"

"From time immemorial, death has been the lot of human beings. But a people that no longer trusts its rulers is lost indeed."
