5th Sunday after the Holy Cross

Readings: Phil 2:12-18 and Mt 25:1-13

Like the bride in the parable of the ten virgins, we know that the bridegroom is coming, but we do not know when: none of us can tell when Christ is coming to take him away in death, no generation of men knows when Christ will return to make the Church triumphant. But because our whole mind and our whole action must be concentrated on that longed-for hour of lodgment, we must always be ready. Lamps are not enough: there must be oil as well. This means that it is not enough to belong outwardly to the Church. We must have a living faith, grace and real love. All equipment and costume are meaningless without them. Only men whose minds are alive with the riches God has given them are ready. Health and beauty, cleverness, energy and courage are of no use if God's grace is not there. Golden lamps of good design are of no use in the dark if they have no oil. "I never knew you", is the answer which Christ will give to those who put their trust in strength, beauty, intelligence or personality, yet had no care for God's word, his grace or love: their lamps were without oil.

Our readiness must be continual. We are not just friends of the bridegroom or the bride, but living members of the Lord's mystical body, living members of the Church, sharing in the betrothal and the marriage. We are not just spectators looking on nearby, not even mere friends invited to the feast. Thus every soul, and the whole Church, should be full of joyful expectancy at Christ's coming. It is natural for us to fear death and try to avoid it, but faith gives us an entirely different view of death. To our naive view of things, death is the end: to faith it is the beginning of great joy. The Christian looks to the future with a restlessness founded in this joy. What Christ has told us, "keep watch, therefore, as you do not know the day or the hour", does not mean a fearful expectancy like that of Noah before the flood, or of the householder who feared the coming of the thief. This waiting of ours is joy. What we are expecting is the fulfillment of the good news, the revelation of God's mystery, the ecstatic happiness of complete communion between God and men. Here will be the fulfillment of all foreshadowing, wishes and longings of ancient myth and Christian mysticism, summed up in the cry of the Apocalypse when the bride says: "Come," and the heavenly Bridegroom answers: "I come quickly."

All Souls Week (November 1-6)

“Can we actually help those in purgatory get out by our prayers?”

Answer: Yes. The members of the body of Christ are connected to each other. The Church refers to three types of Christians: the Church Militant (those on earth), the Church Triumphant (those in heaven) and the Church Suffering (those in purgatory). We are all part of the same mystical body of Christ, whether in heaven, on earth or in purgatory.

The Bible exhorts us to pray for one another (1 Tim. 2:1-4, 2 Macc. 12:46). This prayer includes all members of the body, especially those in need. Those in purgatory are in need because they can't help themselves.

Our prayers, especially the Mass, are said to relieve the suffering of the holy souls in purgatory. These souls are eternally grateful for our prayers and will remember us when they get to heaven. If we go to purgatory, they will surely pray for us. Praying for the dead is an obligation for Catholics, so keep up this good and holy practice.

If you need to remember your parents and beloved ones, please fill the attached Form.

Spirituality: Where Jesus belongs

A father wanted to read a magazine but was being bothered by his little girl, Shelby. She wanted to know what the United States looked liked. Finally, he tore a sheet out of his new magazine on which was printed a map of the country. Tearing it into small pieces, he gave it to her and said, "Go into the other room and see if you can put this together. This will show you our whole country today."

After a few minutes, Shelby returned and handed him the map, correctly fitted and taped together. The father was surprised and asked how she had finished so quickly. "Oh," she said, "on the other side of the paper was a picture of Jesus. When I got Jesus back to where he belonged, then our country just came together.

Wisdom: Jesus is my salvation

I went into my classroom, ready for another year at school;
 I didn't want the work, just wanted to hang and be cool.
 I had on new clothes, new sneaks on my feet;
 I was there for class on time, went to the back and took my seat.
 Yeah, I'm moving up, I'm already grown;
 Soon I'll be graduating, and out on my own.
 From Eva and her friends from school,
 I talked to some of my friends; we were all having fun;
 Said some things I shouldn't have said, did stuff I shouldn't have done.
 I knew I was different. I felt God touch my heart;
 I knew I should set a standard, but then I'd be set apart.
 Walking to the bus, I was not looking for strength;
 I heard the car tires screeching, but now it's too late;
 I'm standing in this room, and I can see the heavenly gate.
 Oh no! I never prayed. I thought I had time to get it straight;
 An angel walked to me, He had a book in his hand;
 I knew it was the Book of Life, when would this dream end?
 I told him my name, and he began to look;
 Then he looked at me sadly and said, your name is not in this book.

Angel, this is a dream, No, I can't be dead!
 He closed the book and turned away,
 He whispered - you cannot proceed ahead.
 No...no this can't be real, angel, you can't turn me away;
 Let me talk to God, maybe He'll let me stay.
 He led me to the gate, Jesus came to me;
 He did not let me in but said, beloved what is your need?
 Jesus, I cried, please, don't cast me away from you;
 Tears ran down his face as he said, you knew what you needed to do.
 Lord, please I'm young, I never thought I would die;
 I thought I'd have plenty of time, death caught me by surprise.
 Lord, I went to church, please Jesus, I believe;
 He said you would not accept me, my love you would not receive.
 Lord, there were too many hypocrites, they weren't being true;
 He took a step back and asked, what does that have to do with you?
 Lord, my family claimed to be saved, they weren't real. You know.
 He said, I died for you, now I have to go.
 I fell to my knees crying to Him, Lord, I planned to be real tomorrow;
 I couldn't, make Him understand, I had never felt such sorrow.
 Then it hit me hard, I said, Lord, where will I go?
 He looked into my eyes and said, my child you already know.
 Please Jesus, I begged, the place is so hot;
 It seemed to trouble and grieve him, He whispered,
 "DEPART FROM ME, I KNOW YOU NOT".
 Lord, you're supposed to be love, how can you send me to damnation?
 He replied, with your mouth you said you loved me, but each day you rejected my salvation.
 With that in an instant, day turned into night;
 I never knew such torture could be, now too late, I know the Bible is right.
 If I can tell you anything, hell has no age.
 It is a place of torture, separated from God and full of rage.
 You know, I thought it was funny -- a joke, but this one thing is true.
 If you never accept Jesus Christ, HELL IS WAITING FOR YOU!
 IF SOMEONE HAD A GUN HELD IN FRONT OF YOUR FACE, AND ASKED YOU IF YOU BELIEVED IN GOD, WHAT WOULD YOU DO?
 SAY NO AND FEEL ASHAMED THE REST OF YOUR LIFE?
 OR SAY YES, I DO, AND DIE STANDING UP FOR GOD?

Story: The weigh of one Mass

One day many years ago, in a little town in Luxembourg, Europe, a Captain of the Forest Guards was in deep conversation with the butcher when an elderly woman entered the shop. The butcher broke off the conversation to ask the old woman what she wanted. She had come to beg for a little meat but had no money. The Captain was amused at the conversation which ensued between the poor woman and the butcher.

"Only a little meat, but how much are you going to give me?"

"I am sorry I have no money but I'll hear Mass for you."

Both the butcher and the Captain were good men but very indifferent about religion, so they at once began to scoff at the old woman's answer.

"All right then," said the butcher, "you go and hear Mass for me and when you come back I'll give you as much meat as the Mass is worth."

The woman left the shop and returned later. She approached the counter and the butcher seeing her said: "All right then we'll see." He took a slip of paper and wrote on it: "I heard a Mass for you." He then placed the paper on the scales and a tiny bone on the other side but nothing happened. Next he placed a piece of meat instead of the bone, but still the paper proved heavier. Both men were beginning to feel ashamed of their mockery but continued their game. A large piece of meat was placed on the balance, but still the paper held its own. The butcher exasperated, examined the scales, but found they were all right. "What do you want my good woman, must I give you a whole leg of mutton?" At this he placed the leg of mutton on the balance, but the paper outweighed the meat. A larger piece of meat was put on, but again the weight remained on the side of the paper. This so impressed the butcher that he was converted, and promised to give the woman her daily ration of meat.

As for the Captain, he left the shop a changed man, an ardent lover of daily Mass. Two of his sons became priests, one a Jesuit and the other a religious of the Sacred Heart. He advised them to say Mass well every day and never miss the Sacrifice of the Mass through any fault of their own.

A Time To Laugh (32)

Do you know?

Did you ever notice: When you put the 2 words "The" and IRS" together it spells "THEIRS?"

Authority

A friend once told the manager of an orchestra that he would love to have a position in the orchestra. Said the manager: "I had no idea you could play an instrument."

"I can't," was the reply. "But I see you have a man there who does nothing but wave a stick around while the others play. I think I could handle his job."

Criticism

To please an official Abraham Lincoln once signed an order transferring certain regiments. Secretary of War Stanton, convinced that the President had made a serious mistake, refused to carry out the order. And for good measure he added: "Lincoln is a fool!"

When this was reported to Lincoln he said: "If Stanton said I am a fool then I must be one, for he is almost always right. I think I'll step over and see for myself."

That is exactly what he did. Stanton convinced him that the order was a mistake and Lincoln promptly withdrew it. Everyone knew that part of Lincoln's greatness lay in the way he welcomed criticism.

Spirituality

A monkey and a hyena were walking through the forest when the hyena said: "Each time I pass by those bushes there a lion jumps out of them and mauls me. I don't know why."

"I'll walk with you this time," said the monkey, "and side with you against the lion."

So they started to walk past the bushes when the lion pounced on the hyena and nearly mauled it to death. Meanwhile the monkey watched the proceedings from the safety of a tree that he had run up the moment the lion had appeared.

"Why didn't you do something to help me?" moaned the hyena. Said the monkey: "You were laughing so much I thought you were winning."

Madness

I was driving with my three young children one warm summer evening when a woman in the convertible ahead of us stood up and waved. She was stark naked! As I was reeling from the shock, I heard my five-year-old shout from the back seat, "Mom! That lady isn't wearing a seat belt!"

Three-for-three

Following his first softball practice, a 6-year-old boy had been asked about how many hits he'd gotten.

"Just three," he replied. "One ball hit my head, and two hit my leg."

Wait less

One day my boss asked me to submit a status report concerning a project I was working on. I asked if tomorrow would be soon enough. "If I wanted it tomorrow," replied my boss, "I would have waited until tomorrow to ask for it!"

Ooooooooooops!

The children had all been photographed, and the teacher was trying to persuade them each to buy a copy of the group picture. "Just think how nice it will be to look at it when you are all grownup and say, 'There's Jennifer; she's a lawyer,' or 'That's Michael. He's a doctor.'" A small voice at the back of the room rang out, "And there's the teacher. She's dead."
